Delius in Hanwell 1892

HERITAGE EXHIBITION

in Ealing Central Library

Thursday 4th to Saturday 27th April 2013

OFFICIAL OPENING: SATURDAY 6th at 2pm

Reporter Kitty Knowles has written a lovely feature on Delius in Hanwell which is published in this week's Ealing Gazette. Do have a look if you have the chance.

Historic Hanwell Broadway is depicted as it would have looked in the late 19th century. The wide vista and tethered horses give it the distinct and very unexpected flavour of a wild west frontier town!

David Blackwell (Hanwell Heritage & Local History Society) and Gillian Spragg (artistic director of the Ealing Autumn Festival) are pictured outside the house where Delius stayed in Church Road, Hanwell.

There will be plenty of time to view the exhibition during April but do come and join us at the opening if you would like to meet David Blackwell and hear more from him about the project.

Please reply if you have not already done so to:

With best wishes
